SPEAKING LAST NIGHT

Judge Holt Entertained a Good Crowd Last Night.

Messrs. Alexander and Droge
Talk to a Smaller Number at the City Hall.

There was speaking last night at the county court house and the city hall—the first was a Republican appointment and the latter a Democratic one. The attendance upon each speaking was very fair, but the Republicans unquestionably had by far the largest crowd.

Judge Holt, of Frankfort, was the attraction for the Republicans, but previous to his appearance on the stand Colonel Sam Houston, the Republican nominee for representative, made a brief talk, which was appreciated by his hearers. He concluded by introducing Judge Holt.

There have been a number of good talks delivered to the people during the state canvass, but one of the very best was the speech of Judge Holt. He is a polished gentleman, accustomed to the rostrum and learned in language and law, and without a peer in the state as a logical talker. His speech therefore was one to be appreciated and it was appreciated, as was evidenced by frequent applause.

Judge Holt discussed the issues of the canvass and the party platform of course. He dodged no issue, whether small or large, and in defending Republicanism scored Goebelism most effectively. His handling of the iniquitous (so-called) election law, the Yeckard and the China bills were particularly forcible and it is to be regretted the defenders of these acts were too cowardly to be present for enlightenment.

The Sun regrets it has to refer to a judge's speech in a general way, but the absence of a stenographer report and the desire to not mar it by a synopsis compels this passing notice. It is certain, however, that the judge's coming to the city was a beneficial one and that the sound things he said will bring forth good fruit in renewed action of the party if not among poorly posted or deluded opponents.

The speakers at the city hall were Messrs. George H. Alexander, of Casey, and John C. Droge, of Covington, the latter the candidate for treasurer on the Brown ticket. Hon. Hal S. Corbett introduced the gentleman, and though the gentlemen both spoke briefly, their earnestness was appreciated by their hearers. They defended the ticket they represent with pointed facts and each scored Goebelism "to a finish." A part of Mr. Droge's address was in German. The main part of it was in English and was confined to Goebelism in Covington and he gave what he said as one who knew and not as hearsay.

Elder J. S. Sweeney, republican candidate for state auditor, a splendid speaker, will address the people tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the county court house. Go out to hear him.

BATTLE ROYALLY FOUGHT

Off Close Together They Made the Race Almost Side by Side to Finish.

IS ANOTHER FAILURE, IT SEEMS

HIGHLAND, N. J., Oct. 7.—A ten knot breeze sent the waves tumbling in shore this morning. The weather is clear and brilliant and the prospects for a race at last between the Shamrock and Columbia were of the best. By 8 o'clock the wind was blowing fifteen knots, and half an hour later it had increased five knots. The fleet of excursion steamers and pleasure crafts was early thronged with expectant crowds. Despite the Shamrock's showing Tuesday and Thursday the Columbia remained a favorite in the betting at five to four. At 9 o'clock the Shamrock started for the sailing line under her own sail, going out like a race horse. Sloops and her sailing crafts were left far behind. The Columbia also made for her starting point under her own sail and the cup defender behaved herself beautifully.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Both the races were given a preliminary spin after reaching the point from where the start was to be made. The wind had lessened perceptibly. However, the Columbia seemed to run more easily than the Shamrock. Shortly before 11 o'clock the course was cleared by the torpedo boats and everything placed in readiness for the signal to cross the line. At 11:19 the signal gun was fired. The Columbia crossed the line first, the Shamrock following 25 seconds later. For the first few minutes the races engaged in luffing each and the Columbia gained a little in the contest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The boats had been headed for Seabright. The wind shifted to the northwest and continued to drop. The Columbia appeared to have better of the conditions. The Shamrock set her balloon jib in stops at 11:39 and half minute later she broke out her big sail and the Columbia broke out her spinnaker. This move was followed by the Shamrock. The challenger had trouble with his three or four stops at first refusing to break. She finally took a down to break out stops. The sail dragged in the water for a minute and then raised again, this time successfully. At 11:51 the Columbia led by a minute and five seconds. The Shamrock, however, soon began to gain on the defender.

11:53 The spinnakers of both the yachts did not fill well. The yachts were running dead before the wind shortly before noon. The wind had died out to about eight knots an hour.

11:56 The Columbia is now increasing her lead, and appears to be several lengths ahead.

12:09 p. m.—The Shamrock is cutting down the Columbia's lead with alarming rapidity. She is almost under the Shamrock's bow.

12:11 p. m.—The boats are now even.

12:12 p. m.—The boats are ploughing side by side like a beautiful span of horses.

12:13 p. m.—The Shamrock has passed the Columbia and leads for the first time in the race.

12:21 p. m.—The Shamrock is still maintaining the lead and it looks as if she is being better managed.

12:30 p. m.—Columbia has made a spin and seemed to be overcoming the rival's lead.

12:43 p. m.—The boats are off Seabright and almost even, the Columbia having taken away nearly all the Shamrock's advantage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—At 1:13 the boats were about a mile and a half off of Long Branch and were having a bottle royal and were tearing along with the Britisher slightly in the lead.

The race to the turn was a beautiful one. The Shamrock continued to maintain the lead, but by a narrow margin. The Shamrock made the turn at 1:36 and the Columbia followed five seconds later. It was a magnificent contest and still a toss-up.

If anything the Columbia had the better position as they swung around the turn. The American boat came around on the inside and a few minutes later passed in front of Shamrock. The boats then indulged in a tacking match, the contestants speeding to port and starboard again and again.

The Columbia continued to hold her slight lead and was out pointing Lipson's boat. The Yankee's running was much better than the Britisher's.

Finke No. 3.

BULLETIN—The race will be the third failure. The wind has laid and boats can't make it in time.

WILL SKIP US.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 7.—William J. Bryan's speaking appointments in Western Kentucky, on Monday, October 16, have been arranged so that Mr. Bryan on that day will make six speeches at Bardwell, Mayfield, Princeton, Hopkinsville, Cental City and Letchfield. His appointments for the second and third days of his stay in Kentucky have not yet been fixed.

CALLED MEETING.

Council to Meet Tonight in Called Session.

The city council meets tonight in called session. A bill of about $1,000 from the Eureka Hose company, for the last assignment of hose, will be allowed. It is probable that the ordinance appropriating the necessary $3,000 for the improvement of Caldwell street to the new I. C. depot will come up, and be given first passage. The mayor also desires the council to take the proper action in regard to the complaint Cairo and her mayor and council have bestowed on Paducah by naming one of their fair days "Paducah Day."

Mayor Lang leaves Monday for Louisville and Winchester, and will probably not return until Friday or Saturday. Judge Tully will receive the Old Fellows in his place.

DAMAGE SUITS

Administrator of Randall Culver
Asks for $20,000.

Mrs. Winfree Sues G. W. Robertson, the Ice Man—Value $1,000.

Mr. R. L. Culver, administrator of the estate of the late Randall Culver, whose buggy was struck at sixth and Jefferson streets last March, and he was thrown out on his head and fatally hurt, this morning filed suit in the circuit court here against the Paducah Railway and Light company and the Paducah Street Railway company for $20,000 damages.

The facts in the case are doubtless well known. The accident occurred at the intersection of the streets, and while it was unfortunate for the gentleman, it could not be avoided, seemingly.

The deceased resided near Maxon's Mills and had only recently returned from Texas. He was sometimes called Squire Culver, but is not the better known Squire Culver, of Marshall county.

Moss is the attorney in the case.

Mrs. Eva Winfree, wife of Engineer Al Winfree, this morning through her attorney, J. Wheeler Campbell, filed suit in the circuit court against G. W. Robertson & Co., for $1,000 damages.

Mrs. Winfree and her mother, Mrs. Burch, were out driving a few days ago when they were struck by an ice wagon. It appears there were some heavy vehicles in the street and the ladies were driving to pass in between them. The ice wagon was behind and there was not room enough for one to pass. The ladies saw this and turned up. The ice wagon was coming so rapidly that the tongue went over the top of the phaeton, but Mrs. Winfree was painfully hurt by the shock as it struck the buggy and glanced.

ELDER SWEENEY

To Address the People Tonight at the County Court House.

This evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the county court house, Elder John S. Sweeney, of Bourbon county, who is the Republican nominee for auditor, will address the people in behalf of the party. Mr. Sweeney is an exceedingly fine talker and should have a large audience. He is one of the state's most noted and most respected avines and has to his credit some of the best speeches made in the canvass. The people of all political opinions should give him a hearing.

Whether There Will Be War Between England and the Transvaal

IS A MATTER OF THE FUTURE

United States to Be Asked to Use Friendly Offices to Avert a Conflict.

ENGLAND CALLS OUT RESERVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Gen. O'Meara of New York, the Transvaal representative in this country, is in Washington and will confer today with Acting Secretary of State Hill to secure recognition as commissioner and to ask the friendly offices of the United States in averting hostilities between Great Britain and the Transvaal. He expresses the opinion that the differences between the two governments will not be settled by arbitration.

Dispatches received in London from South Africa tend to confirm the belief that President Kruger will restrain any forward movement by the Boers unless they are first cowed. War is a daily danger. It is now believed the British Parliament will meet October 17.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The queen, in a royal proclamation, today authorizes the calling out of the necessary British army reserves. Every army battalion will be recruited to its full strength. The men are warned to present themselves before October 17.

CAPE TOWN, Oct. 7.—James Hay, president of the Johannesburg Chamber of Mines, says the Boers will desert Johannesburg if defeated in war with England.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

Big Day on the Campus at Galesburg, Ill.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—President McKinley and his party reached Galesburg, Ill., last night after a day of speeches and orations at various points in the state. At Peoria he participated in the unveiling of a monument to the soldiers of the civil war.

GALESBURG, Ill., Oct. 7.—The ceremonies on the campus of Knox college this morning, in celebration of the anniversary of the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate, were most impressive. President McKinley arrived at the grounds early and was given a great ovation. He made a brief address, extolling the virtues of Lincoln and Douglas. His remarks were frequently punctuated by applause. Postmaster General Smith was the orator of the day. He pictured Douglas and gave a clear synopsis of the arguments of both Lincoln and Douglas.

YELLOW JACK.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Thirty nine new cases of yellow fever developed in Key West yesterday. One death was reported. Jackson, Miss., has not had a new case in two days, and New Orleans reported only one fresh victim yesterday.

DRIVES THEM BACK.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Gen. Grant's command yesterday drove the insurgents from the entire west bank of the Ima river. Three Americans were wounded and ten Filipinos were killed in the engagement.

The census printer now has in hand the questions which the census enumerators will be required to ask next June. It will not be long before a curious public will know exactly about what Mrs. It is going to be cathechized.

ALL BOSH.

Newspapers Trying to Work a Bluff on the People.

Marshal Collins has a dozen or fifteen notices to serve on colored men who registered at the last registration day and are supposed to be ex-convicts. The notice informs them that a motion will be made in the county court next Thursday to strike their names from the registration books. If the men are not ex-convicts, or have received a pardon, they can appear and prevent their names being removed. The talk in some of the newspapers that warrants would be issued is all nonsense. A man violates no law in registering. If he is not entitled to register, is not challenged, sworn or questioned, and is allowed to register, he has violated no law and nothing can be done except to strike his name from the books. No warrants have been issued and none will be.

FRANKLIN TESTIFIES.

The Case Will Last About a Week Longer.

Noah Franklin was put on the stand at Henton this morning and his testimony was about half given in when court adjourned until Monday. It is thought that the trial will last the greater part, if not all of next week. It has already been on trial over a week.

TIT FOR TAT.

When the Democratic committee is through with examining the registration books, to find illegal voters, the Republicans will take a whirl at the same job. Without any effort to do the Democrats have already secured a number of illegal Democratic registrations and will either have them expunged from the books or stop them at the polls. The Republicans are not to be buffed by such folly, but will see the game of the Democrats and do them one better, in good time and a proper way. Men who will illegally register will vote illegally, no matter what party they belong to, and the Democrats should clean their own skirts before throwing mud upon others.

Little, but oh my! Selden's the best so cigar.

Elder J. S. Sweeney, Republican candidate for state auditor, a splendid speaker, will address the people tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the county court house. Go out and hear him.

SATURDAY, OCT. 7, 1899.

Charge the rashness of the Louisville convention to me is what Mr. Goebel said in his speech here. The people have made and are making the charge and in November they will collect the account. Mr. Goebel's bold "charge it to me" called for a setting day, though he didn't seem to think so at the time.

It was Tweed who said to the defrauded people of New York "What are you going to do about it?" and they did "him up" in their doing. It is the Goebels who said "How will you help yourself—we have the machinery and if defeated will do the counting in," but they are only talking, for the people will count them in state's prison before they are counted into office. The people rule and not the rascals.

The Goebel papers have rushed the item over the state that Senator Lindsay has registered in Frankfort as a Republican and that the act was the finale to a deal between him and the Republicans by which the senator was to be re-elected, etc. A lie of whole cloth, circulated by the Goebels solely because Mr. Lindsay is a sound money Democrat, the truth of the story will not be told by them, unless a part of the result compels them to do so. The fact is, it was Judge W. D. Lindsay, a well known and fine long resident and Republican, who registered as reported.

People who read figures and don't stop to think are claiming that Tuesday's registration shows a clear majority for Goebel. These credulous figure readers only delude themselves by their conclusions and write themselves down asses by their declarations. They want to think for a moment that 90 per cent of the independent vote will vote for Taylor and Brown and that a goodly part of the Democratic vote will vote for Brown and not for Goebel. Of this there is no doubt except in the minds of those who never think for themselves and vote as they think, "like sheep." To point "he moral" to this opinion the registration and vote in Louisville in 1897—a year when conditions were very much like they are now—can be fixed up as an exhibit. In the year named the registration in the Metropolis was: Democrats, 16,159; Republicans, 17,927; doubtful, 7,299—total 41,385. That year the vote for Jefferson county, including Louisville, which should have made a more advantageous showing because of the vote outside of the Metropolis, resulted as follows: McKinley, 29,167; Bryan, 16,707; Palmer, 1,678; Levering, 380. A repetition of his vote, in ratio, in November is not at all unlikely, with the greater weight to the Goebel ticket in the same proportion.

GOEBEL AND CARLISLE.

Louisville Post: "At Versailles Mr. Goebel, in response to the accusations of treachery made by former political associates, said: "When the Lexington convention met in June, 1896, I appeared there at the head of the Kentucky county delegation, an untrusting delegation from the home county of John G. Carlisle, candidate for president, and I cast the vote of that county for Chas. J. Bronsten for chairman, the free silver candidate, and against Alexander P. Humphrey, the single gold standard candidate, and I cast that vote and my own for the platform then adopted, which declared for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and instructed the delegation at Chicago to cast Kentucky's vote not for John G. Carlisle, but for Joseph C. S. Blackburn," "How was it that Mr. Goebel found himself in the state convention at the head of the Kentucky county delegation? He certainly was not there by the assistance of Mr. Blackburn, for just the year before he had killed Blackburn's personal friend and political ally, because that friend was striving to secure Mr. Blackburn's re-election to the senate.

"Mr. Goebel had all the winter been trying to 'placate' Mr. Blackburn, and had somewhat mitigated his wrath of vengeance, but it did not do him good at that critical moment he was willing to keep Harvey Meyers and his delegation out of the convention, that Mr. Goebel could come in at the head of a Carlisle delegation.

"Goebel was there by the assistance of Mr. John G. Carlisle. With W. B. Hadenham he had gone to Washington to seek Mr. Carlisle's assistance, and he had explained to Mr. Carlisle how he could most effectively and to his efforts to get into the convention, and in his determination to keep Harvey Meyers out.

"It was by this aid that Mr. Goebel got into the convention. He went there by the assistance of Mr. Carlisle's friends; he was there in the interest of Mr. Carlisle and of sound money.

"It was the critical period in the struggle between silver and gold. The Kentucky fight, by its influence direct and indirect, determined the complexion of the national convention. In Mr. Carlisle's delegation were Mr. Carlisle's friends. In his fight at home Mr. Goebel had the personal assistance of Mr. Carlisle's brother.

"After he was seated and all contests were passed, this Carlisle leader, this Benedict Arnold of modern politics, turned on the man who had put him in the convention, violated all his pledges, and tried to make himself solid with the dominant silver leaders.

"That is the story, the plain, unvarnished tale, every part of which can be substantiated by documentary evidence.

"The world hates a traitor. Those Democrats who are willing to reward Goebel's treachery have simply to consider that after all he voted only as Harvey Meyers and his delegation voted; have to consider that from his treachery the silver men derived no benefit whatever. All the usufruct of this treachery went personally to Goebel. He was rewarded by being put on the central committee by Blackburn. He became by that treachery the leader of the Blackburn forces in the legislature. In betraying Carlisle he dragged the Copper-Journal with him, and by its aid secured he through treachery to Stone a fraudulent nomination.

"We ask the followers of Mr. Goebel we ask the men he has named as his associates on the ticket, not to condone this treachery. A bold received the price stipulated, but he never was able in England to hold up his head among the men who sought to benefit by his treachery.

"Goebel has received more than the worth of the service. He gave nothing. He gave nothing to the party. He was not a member of the central committee. He was allowed to dictate to the Democratic caucus. He fastened on the party responsibility for his own sins, and when it serves his purpose he will betray Blackburn, Bryan and any associate with the same deliberate malice that which distinguished his treachery to Carlisle.

"Mr. Bryan is coming to Kentucky to ask the Democrats to elect this man governor. Let some silver man lay this record before the gentleman from Nebraska and ask him if such a politician should be trusted with any commission from the Democratic party."

The reader of this paper will be pained to learn that there is at least one dread disease that science has been unable to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by putting up the constitutional and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for free trial only.

A BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS.

Man proposes; woman feels disposed to. When you kiss some girls your shoes feel too tight. There is no doubt that the devil has a great many interesting friends. I must have puzzled Eve dreadfully, before she wore fig leaves, to know what to do with all the pins. A girl never enjoys the first part of her honeymoon much, because she can never get over the idea that her chaperone may catch her.—New York Press.

Every man has enshrined in his heart some face that is fatter than all else in the world to him. It is an image that is with him always. It embodies to him all that is sweetest and best in life. It is the one secret, cherished touch of idealism in the dull prose of his life.
